Real action on crime

Nick Clegg and the Liberal Democrats are pledging real action to tackle crime and anti-social behaviour.

In Britain today, only one in a hundred crimes is punished by a sentence in court. Two violent crimes are committed every minute.

It's clear that Labour has failed to tackle rising crime across the country.

The Lib Dems want to put thousands more police on patrol and give local communities more power to tackle anti-social behaviour problems.

"It's time for real change and a fresh approach", said Lib Dem Leader Nick Clegg. "People should be able to feel safe in their homes. We need to stop wasting money on things like ID cards that won't cut crime, and take real action to put more police on our streets instead".

Change that works for you

Lib Dems' four steps to a fairer Britain:

1. Fairer taxes that put money back in your pocket

Pay no tax on the first £10,000 you earn – cutting most tax bills by £700.

2. A fair chance for every child

Smaller class sizes, more cash for schools and abolish university tuition fees.

3. A fair future: create jobs by making Britain greener

Invest in public transport, renewable energy and energy efficient homes.

4. A fair deal for you from the politicians

Make politicians accountable and give you the right to sack corrupt MPs.
